

HEROES IN UNIFORM

A new exhibition "Superheroes" by artist Anat Greenberg explores the image of the Israeli soldier. Greenberg uses the soldier's image as a metaphor of Israeli culture, in which boundaries set by traditional, cultural and social conventions are blurred and contradictory elements such as the wild, the moral, the lawless and the immoral work together to generate unpredictable processes.

The Artists House, 9 Alharizi Street, Tel Aviv, (03) 524-6685. Opens tonight at 7:30.
